What is Meolea and who is it for?

Getting Started · https://www.meolea.com/help/getting-started/what-is-meolea/

Meolea is a secure digital platform that helps you organize important information about your life, estate, and personal wishes in one place.

It allows you to:

- Document your assets and important documents
- Store personal information securely
- Write your life story and preserve memories
- Define what should happen after your passing
- Appoint trusted contacts who can act when needed

Meolea combines practical estate organization with personal legacy planning.

What problem does Meolea solve?

Many people store important information across:

- Paper folders
- Different cloud services
- Emails
- Password managers
- Or not at all

When something unexpected happens, relatives often struggle to find documents, access information, or understand personal wishes.

Meolea helps you:

- Bring everything together in one structured place

- Reduce uncertainty for your family
- Make your wishes clear
- Stay in control of your digital and personal legacy

Who is Meolea for?

Meolea is designed for adults who want clarity and structure around:

- Digital estate planning
- Personal documentation
- End-of-life preparation
- Family transparency

You may benefit from Meolea if you:

- Want to organize your estate early
- Have family members who would need guidance
- Want to preserve your memories and life story
- Prefer a secure digital solution instead of paper folders
- Value privacy and long-term planning

There is no minimum age requirement — planning early simply makes things easier later.

Is Meolea only for older people?

No.

While estate planning is often associated with later life stages, unexpected events can happen at any age.

Many users choose Meolea because they:

- Have children
- Run a business
- Own property
- Travel frequently

- Or simply want to be prepared

Planning is not about age — it’s about responsibility and peace of mind.

Is Meolea a legal service?

Meolea is not a law firm and does not replace legal advice.

Instead, it helps you:

- Organize information
- Document your wishes
- Keep everything accessible and structured

For legally binding documents, you should consult qualified professionals where necessary.

How is Meolea different from cloud storage?

Unlike general cloud storage services, Meolea is:

- Structured specifically for estate and life planning
- Designed with post-death processes in mind
- Built around trusted contact and verification workflows
- Focused on clarity, not just file storage

It is not just storage — it is structured life organization.
